

CBW 2009 CCCC FELLOWSHIP

December 1, 2008: Applications Due

January 2009: Award recipient notified

March 2009: Winner invited to give a brief presentation about his/her interests to the CBW SIG attendees.

The Conference on Basic Writing is pleased to announce the 2008 CBW/CCCC Fellowship, a $500 award given to a teacher of basic writing to subsidize travel to CCCC in San Francisco in March and participation in the Conference on Basic Writing Pre-Conference Workshop (Wednesday before CCCC)

Apply Today!

The CBW/CCCC Fellowship is intended to support basic writing instructors who might otherwise have difficulty attending CCCC; priority will be given to instructors who demonstrate how attending the CBW workshop and CCCC will benefit their development, and how they can use ideas gathered at the conference at their home institution(s) and/or other venues.

Applicants need not have had a paper accepted for presentation at CCCC. However, if presenting at the 2009 CCCC, titles and abstracts of papers should be included with the application. To apply, send a two-page letter, a curriculum vita, and, if applicable, title and abstract of an accepted 2009 CCCC presentation as Microsoft Word attachment(s) to email message by December 1, 2008. Materials should be sent to Dr. Sonya Armstrong (sarmstrong@niu.edu) or to the campus address listed below. Please email Dr. Armstrong if you have questions or concerns.

Applicants for the Fellowship must

- Clearly outline how attending the CBW Workshop and CCCC will benefit their professional interests and the interests of the students with whom the work
- Provide a plan describing how they will disseminate information and ideas gathered during the CCCC to professional colleagues and students after their attendance at the conference.

The Fellowship winner should plan to attend the CBW Pre-Conference Workshop (the full Wednesday before the conference) and the CBW SIG. Each year's fellowship recipient will be recognized at the CBW Special Interest Group at CCCC.
