

Discussions/Threads User Guide

We are excited to announce the release of a new Pearson LearningStudio Student Threads interface which includes options to embed media, search within a discussion, and grade discussion posts from the discussion board. In response to feedback directly from faculty and students, threaded discussions have been overhauled to make for easier organization, searching, and sharing of content.

Discussions/Threads User Guide

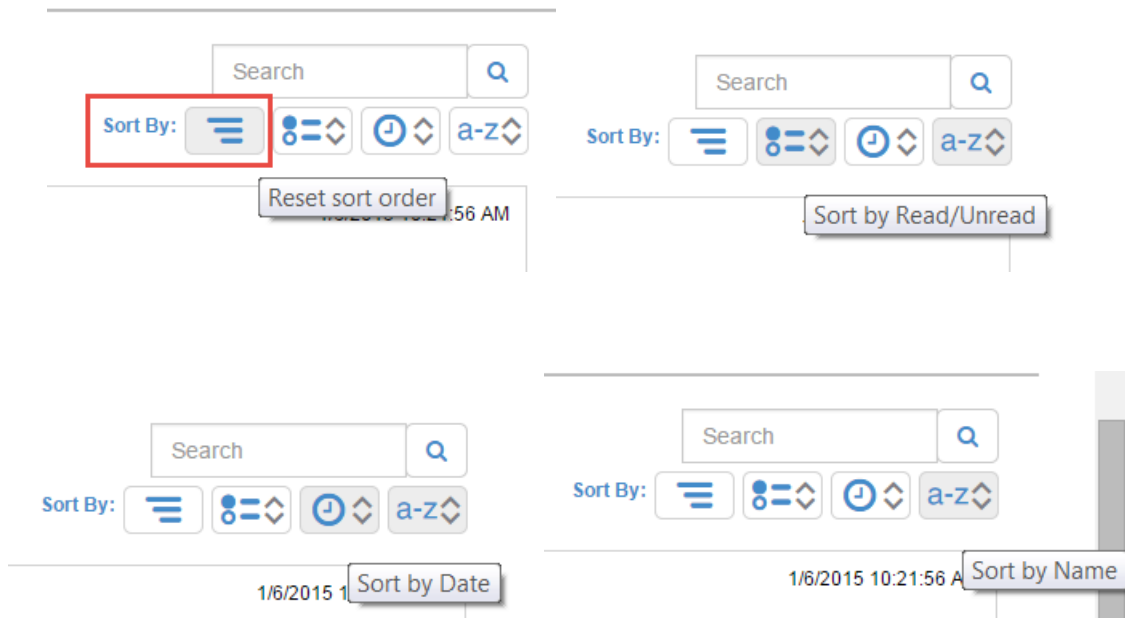

The new discussion interface is cleaner and more streamlined, with easily read fonts.

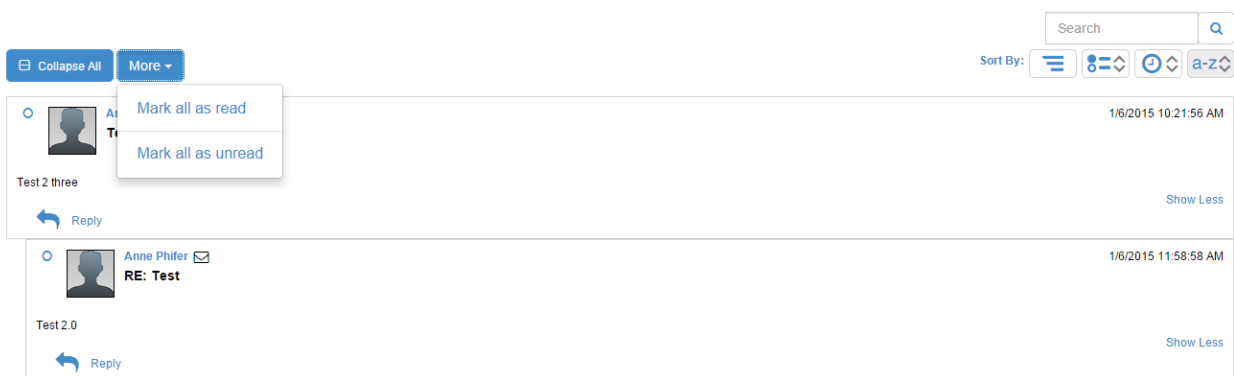

Additionally, there is now a pop-out preview option which helps students proofread before posting.

Discussion posts can now be sorted in a variety of ways: by read/unread status, by date, or alphabetically by name.

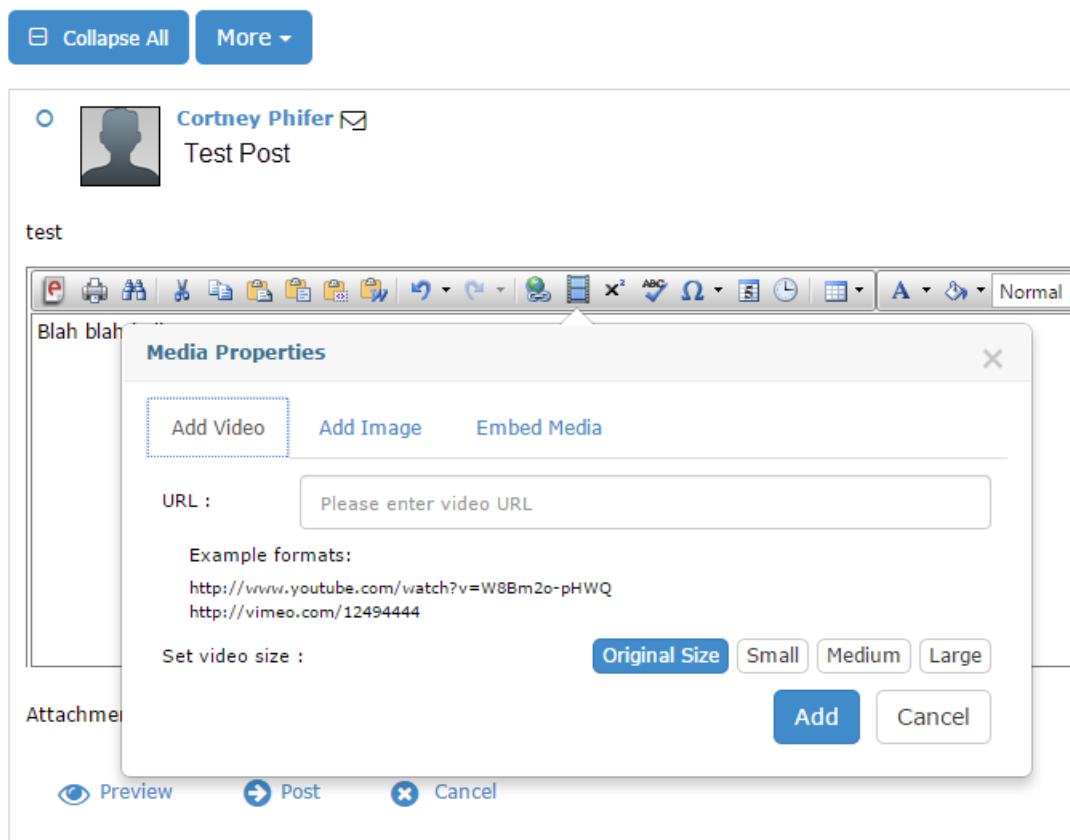

Additionally, instructors and students can now use keywords to search within a particular discussion thread. This search is limited to the threaded discussion topic they are in and does not include results from other threads or thread topics. Enter keywords in the Search box and the resulting occurrences will be highlighted in the post and replies for that discussion string.

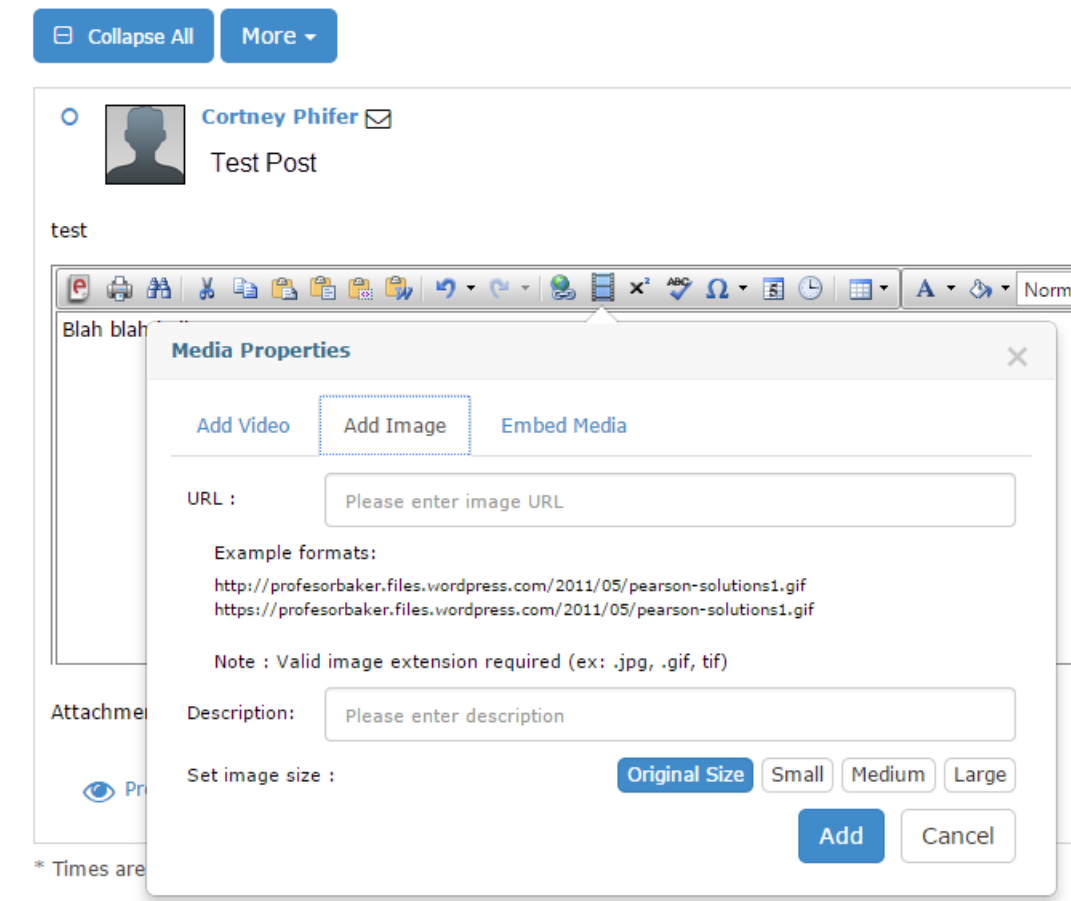

The new Embed Media option in the posting editor allows students and instructors to embed videos, images, and other media into discussion posts easily.

To add a video, simply enter the URL where the video is hosted online.

Alternately, the Embed Image option allows you to post an image directly into a post along with an alt tag description, making it accessible for those who use screen readers.

The “Embed Media” option allows you to insert any media embed tag taken from any website, leaving options open for embedded audio and presentations that are hosted elsewhere on the internet.

Once in Author Mode, instructors can grade discussion posts directly from the discussion board. By simply selecting the blue box icon with the checkmark in the right-most column,

LITERACY SPONSORSHIP AND DISCOURSE COMMUNITIES

This unit we will be discussing Literacy Sponsorship and Discourse Communities. Please watch the relevant lecture notes for this unit before doing your discussion post.

In this discussion, you should post a thoughtful, well-considered response to the ideas and concepts presented in this unit. Do not summarize the readings; we are running on the assumption that everyone can read and summarize. Instead, discuss the things that those readings bring up for you. If the readings don't make you think, go back and re-read them. If you're not thinking about the larger conversation that these readings inspire, then you're not reading correctly.

Post one 300 word response by January 29th. Respond with two, 100 word responses to your classmates by February 9th.
